

Canadian PGA Instructional Team 2008

Ernie Fairles

Ernie's love for the game of golf and its history began at the early age of 5, which has fostered his passion for teaching. He has since enthusiastically dedicated himself to instruction of the golf swing.

For the past 10 years, Ernie has studied under some of the country's most reputable teachers, including Tom Jackson and Sean Foley. His professional experience and development training, combined with his personality, communicative skills, and in depth knowledge of the golf swing, has resulted in a successful track record with amateurs and aspiring professionals and is further evidenced by his popularity in the membership and loyalty of his students.

Ernie actively encourages his students to take 'ownership' of their own improvement. With his unique, personal approach to instruction, and his continued focus on the importance of practice, he combines 'Cause and Affect' analogies with physical/hands-on examples to promote a positive learning environment for his students, while re-enforcing a shared accountability for their success.
